

Discussions

Record of Discussion

- D1 / Nov 24, 2024: The Venerable Papassaro & Vorachet
 - [D1/R1] The initial phase of services on Buddhistscience.net shall focus on asynchronous learning and independent learners seeking to deepen their understanding of Buddhist science (not learners seeking a superficial understanding of Buddhist science), featuring one-way communication but each lesson unit will include a variety of supporting media, such as text, audio, video, downloadable offline learning materials, and other diverse content types designed to maximize the learning environment for participants.
 - [D1/R2] The platform will facilitate the creation of flexible, adaptable lessons and courses that can be easily customized to suit various learning styles, learner needs, and instructional contexts. This will enable rapid development, configuration, and publication of new content.
 - [D1/R3] Effective search functionality is essential for accessing complex and large content repositories, enabling users to efficiently locate relevant information.